EXPIRATION LISTS – UPDATE

To better serve producers and consumers, the Association is updating its approach to expiration lists. You now have access to two types of expiration lists.

Both types of expiration lists are available on the web site under “My Account.” Producers can sign-in to view them.

Policies expiring in the next 90 days list . . . This list shows the policies expiring in the next 90 days plus the policies that have expired in the last seven days.

Policies expiring by month lists . . . Producers can also select from monthly lists consisting of the current month, next month, and the following month.

Each list provides status information such as application submitted, application pending, or application is available for rewrite. A producer can start the rewrite process by clicking on “Rewrite.”

With this change, expiration lists will no longer be printed and mailed. Agencies can print a physical copy of the expiration list from the web site.

If you have any questions, please contact one of our underwriters.
